

ENTRANCE ESSAY FOR FAMILY NURSE PRACTITIONER PROGRAM

Many people suffer from kidney disease and their lives depend on the dialysis. The main role of those who prolong the life of the kidneys of the patients is put on dialysis nurses. This essay is an attempt to describe what I do as a dialysis nurse and to delineate my career goal, which is becoming a nurse practitioner.

As part of the healthcare team, I work in the dialysis centre. I was specifically trained in order to take care for those patients who suffer from kidney disease. As a rule, I usually check the signs of the patients for their disease assessing their conditions. I usually teach my patients regarding kidney disease the possibility of treatment. I also make sure that my patients are given correct treatment medications ordered by doctors.

My other functions include evaluation stage of the reaction of the patients to medications and dialysis treatment. In addition, I usually help my patients to follow up with the center and provide the support of the carotene regarding the delivery of the qualitative care. All of my duties are done with great enthusiasm and desire to learn more. However, I do not want to stop and would like to continue growing professionally.

For the aforementioned reason, I consider the Family Nurse Practitioner program as the next step in my career. I will be able to shape my personality being a dedicated, competent, and responsible nurse to manage care in a family setting. I would like to deepen both my clinical skills and academic knowledge in order to be able to promote health, prevent disease, and manage kidney illnesses correctly. That is why I consider the Family Nurse Practitioner program as the best choice for my career goal.
